René J. Millour lässt mit seiner 11883 mal wieder staunen – eingeschickt an seinem 75. Geburtstag und versehen mit einer dringenden Bitte: „I think it is really necessary to publish an empty diagram to make clear that we are adding pieces on an EMPTY board!“ So soll es geschehen. Die Forderung lautet: Monochromes Schach. Ergänze die Könige und 6 schwarze und/oder weiße Steine gleicher Art, sodass jede kBP 22.0 Züge umfasst. a) Welcher Art sind die 6 Steine, wenn ein Läufer auf f4 verschwand? b) Welches waren die 5 letzten Einzelzüge in der entsprechenden Stellung? c) Von wem und wo wurden die fehlenden Steine geschlagen? Monochrome. Add the Ks and 6 black and/or white pieces of the same kind so that any shortest game counts 22.0 moves. 1) Of what kind are the 6 pieces if we are sure a Bishop disappeared on f4? 2) In the corresponding position, which were the last 5 single moves? 3) And by what were captured which pieces and where?

Hubert Gockel schreibt begleitend zu seiner 11916: „Die gängige Erklärung für die Gangart des Saltadors lautet: ‚Saltador = Argentinischer Springer: Zieht wie eine Kombinationsfigur aus Maohüpfer und Moahüpfer und schlägt wie eine Kombinationsfigur aus Mao und Moa.‘ (<http://www.dieschwalbe.de/lexikon.htm>) Diese Definition, finde ich, wirkt hemmend ... man muss ja erstmal die Mao- und Moa-Definitionen nachschlagen, von Maohüpfer und Moahüpfer genauso, nur ... wo findet man die?! Einfacher wäre doch gewesen: ‚Saltador = Argentinischer Springer: Zieht wie ein normaler Springer, wenn mindestens eins der Felder zwischen Start- und Zielfeld belegt ist – und schlägt wie ein normaler Springer, wenn mindestens eins der Felder zwischen Start- und Zielfeld frei ist.‘“

Von Horst Bäcker, Iwan Brjuchanow, Gerald Ettl, Jochen Lehmensick, Abdelaziz Onkoud, Waleri A. Surkow und Andreas Thoma lagen zum Stichtag mehr als fünf Urdrucke zur Publikation vor.

Ein Lexikon mit allen Märchenschachbegriffen, die in diesem Urdruckteil vorkommen (und vielen weiteren), finden Sie im Internet unter <http://www.dieschwalbe.de/lexikon.htm>. Sollten Sie darüber hinaus zu den Urdrucken weitere Erläuterungen benötigen, mailen Sie mir einfach! Viel Spaß beim Lösen und Kommentieren! (HG)
